terday morning. There were eighteen delby the delegates at St. Joseph's Church, and on the return to the hall C. A. Korbly, of this city, formally called the council to order. In a lengthy address he gave a histoty of the society and explained its purposes. He was chosen temporary president, and Harry E. Royse was made temporary secretary. Edward Kessing, of Greensburg, was elected marshal of the convention.

As the institute has recently been cut into seven jurisdictions, all under one supreme urisdiction, instead of two independent juctions, a complete reorganization of the order in the various jurisdictions is neces-sary. Union on Free Silver-Germans Will Bolt from the White-Metal

The movement toward a fusion of the Pop ulists and Democrats in Indiana, noted in the Journal four weeks ago, when the plan was to fuse on the legislative ticket alone and again pointed out last Monday, when the plan to nominate fusion candidates for Congress was described, seems to be moving on rapidly, and now there is much talk of general fusion upon the whole ticket. The Populist leaders are only too willing same as you've often paid 15c per yard for, to go into this deal, because they believe they are practically swallowing up the Democratic party in so doing. The professional politicians, who have always controlled the policy of the Democratic party in Indiana, are also willing, because in this they can see the only possible way of hope for success and continued grip on the offices. The question of principle does not bother them either Shanklin or Shively, the Populists will either hold no convention at all, or, hold- but refused to give his name. Populists, one of his letters, that to John H. Brunt, the Anderson Populist, having got into print last Sunday.

There are three elements in the Demoand do not participate much in making its nominations or platforms, but they are a powerful element when it comes to voting, and are not by any means easy to control. They owe the party nothing and expect from it nothing in the way of personal advancement, and the party leaders, therefore, have no club with which to drive them into line. The third element is the German vote of the State, which is largely in the Democratic party. The average German-American citizen is industrious and saves his money, and does not care to have it cheapened. All his interests, his training and his education are against cheap money, and he can never be induced to vote for free silver. The Democrats, a few months ago, were building high hope upon controlling the whole German vote of the State on the strength of the Nicholson law, but they discovered before they had gone very far that it was impossible to deceive them, and they held Gov. Matthews as much responsible for the law as they did the Legislature; in fact, the German newspapers have been speaking of it as "the Nicholson-Matthews law."

BUTLER COMMENCEMENT. Rev. J. H. Garrison, of St. Louis, Will Deliver the Address.

The college work at Butler closes two weeks from to-day. The year's catalogue will be issued this week. On Wednesday morning. June 3, at 10 o'clock, the final chapel exercises will be held. Ethel Newhouse, a young woman who boarded in McNeil's side of the house, thought that it was unfair for the children to be deprived of the privilege of visiting the hydrant at pleasure and attempted to cut the strap in twain. Her efforts were witnessed by Oakley Price, who ran from his house and grabbed her hand. The woman tried to get away, and in see-sawing back and forth across the top of the fence her arm was lacerated. McNeil had Price arrested by constables from Justice Clark's court. Yesterday Justice Clark fined him $1 and $19.45 costs for assault and battery on the young woman.

Proposed by Roth at School Board Meeting-Contract Awarded for a Building Addition.

The Indianapolis School Board met in special session last night and awarded the contract for the four-room addition to school No. 4. The successful bidders were Salisbury & Stanley, whose estimate was $13,871. The other bids were as follows: F. Schrieber, $15,100; William Kattau, $14,450; J. A. Schumacher & Co., $14,298; C. Bender, $14,700; S. F. Smith, $14,262; William Jungclaus & Co., $14,370; P. Clements, $14,130; F. Lohrman, $23,800; William Krass, $14,495. The addition is to be made to the rear of school No. 4, which will make it a sixteenroom building. Commissioner Hendrickson objected to the bid and urged the board to keep the expense within $13,000. The majority was against him, and his motion to

"The apportionment in the school dis-tricts of this city is as unfair and infamous ought to be plain to every commissioner, and to adjust it and give the South Side a chance I move that we abolish the Third district and make it a part of Mr. Blackledge's district. As it is, the South Side has but four school commissioners and the North Side has seven. Now, this is unfair to the South Side."

The majority seemed to be as much surprised at this speech as the minority, and some of the members took it as a joke. Mr. Roth did not receive a second to his motion, and the only member who showed a disposition to favor it was Mr. Vonnegut, who voted "no" on the motion to adjourn.
Mr. Russe was not in favor of the change at this time. He said he might vote for it after the election, but not now. Mr. Hendrickson was opposed to it, declaring that it would be a bad move.

"Whenever you arrange these districts so that they are evenly divided," he said, "the spoils system will be at its best. This has been the history of every city that has undertaken it."

The territory which Mr. Roth wanted to tack on to the First district, represented by Mr. Blackledge, is the district in which President Martindale was elected. A candidate is to be elected from the Third this year. The clique is afraid it will be beaten in this district. Mr. Roth explained that by this combination of districts the number of school commissioners would be more of school commissioners would be more evenly divided. At least the North Side would have one commissioner less. The Third district people are opposed to the "gang," and at the election in this district this year the successful candidate will help split up this crowd.

He agreed to appoint a commission to represent Indiana and will probably announce the names of the members in a few days. I hope that the next Legislature will make an appropriation sufficient to properly exhibit Indiana's vast resources and industries.

The Governor called in a number of gentlemen to confer with him regarding the com-mission. All were favorable to it and it was the consensus of opinion that it consist of thirteen members representing the thir-teen districts of the State. "Regarding the centennial exposition, I wish to say that it will be the largest ever held in the country barring only the Co-lumbian exposition. It will open May 1, 1897, and continue six months. It was at first planned that it should open next Sepmber, but there were several reasons for changing the time. It was probably a little too soon after the Atlanta exposition and too soon after the Atlanta exposition and would possibly be affected by the hard times, which will doubtless disappear largely before next May. Then we did not want to follow the footsteps of other similar expositions and have an opening two or three weeks before we were really ready to receive the public. To make sure that we would be ready we decided to make the date of the opening later. The main buildings are well under way. Seven of them will be finished by Sept. 1 of this year. The grounds were graded and sodded last year. The walks are all ready for the cement and the shrubbery and flowers are being set now. There will be no such robbery of exhibitors as there has been at some other expositions I have visited. There are seven railroads running to the grounds and siderailroads running to the grounds and side-tracks are run into the grounds and up to the very door of each building. They had no sooner left the Secretary of State's office than the attorney employed by the officers of the club came hustling in with articles of incorporation already drawn up and filed them in haste.
